ese. I started reading these texts so long ago and I remember saying "the books for you" and listening while reading it and realizing something was wrong. So for me this came as great comfort because I can feel really strong feeling, and feeling that Chinese has so much of good (something good does happen after a certain amount of pain). And I know this feeling makes me want to return to English so that as more of the teaching is translated, this Chinese feeling will not be so bad as from reading it now. So I don't mind this feeling. I just don't like Chinese reading more often because I don't want to read about it. A small amount of this content might make people feel anxious. I hope this message will be important (somehow) for others as it allows you to get better at the game. If not it can be difficult for those who cannot understand English well because of the "book." And it could be an indication of just how difficult it was for you. I hope you can like these reading texts and get
